

got drama?

Joining a union doesn't guarantee harmony. In many cases, it can introduce new challenges, conflicts, and delays that make workplace issues harder to solve.

Union Drama Can Look Like This:

- Leadership disputes and internal politics
- Pressure to support strikes or picket lines
- Fines or discipline for not following union rules
- Delays in resolving grievances due to red tape

Your Voice May Get Lost:

- Union speaks for everyone — not just you
- You may disagree with union decisions
- Long grievance procedures replace direct conversations
- Personal concerns can be overlooked in group priorities
