

Question

Would Sysco Allentown continue to enforce safety and attendance policies if colleagues voted in a union?

Answer

Yes. Sysco Allentown cares about the safety of our colleagues and the public. Therefore, we will always make safety a priority. We expect all drivers to comply with company safety policies and federal and state laws. No union will ever change that.

Obviously, colleagues' attendance each day is critical to serving our customers and protecting the jobs of everyone who works here. If colleagues fail to properly call out or report to work on time, we risk service failures and lost business, and other colleagues often have to do more to cover for colleagues who are absent or tardy.

We want to be flexible, but Safety and Attendance are important at every Sysco Company.

Don't be Misled to Think a Union Would Change that Fact!
